

ONLINE Certificate Course in Transactional Analysis

About Transactional Analysis

Transactional Analysis (TA) is a theory that helps Human Resource (HR) professionals identify and address communication and relationship issues in the workplace. TA is a form of psychoanalysis that studies social interactions and how to improve them. It's grounded in ego states, which are ways that people think, feel, and behave. TA analysis interactions to determine the ego state of people, which can be parent-like, child-like, or adult-like. This provides a framework for understanding human behavior and improving interpersonal relationships.
